

114th VFW National Convention Rolls Into Louisville

Jul 18, 2013

More than 10,000 members of the nation's oldest and largest major combat veterans' organization are rolling into the Blue Grass State this weekend to elect new leadership and to approve national resolutions that will guide its advocacy efforts on Capitol Hill and its veteran and military support programs across the country.

"Our organization is governed by its members and elected delegates to our annual convention," said John E. Hamilton, the national commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States and its Auxiliaries.

"We expect a great deal from every delegate, because the decisions they make help to guide our lobbying efforts that directly benefit veterans, service members and their families, as well as all the wonderful support programs we provide at no charge, such as our service officers, who last year helped 125,000 veterans to recoup an organizational record $3.7 billion in earned disability compensation and pension from the Department of Veterans Affairs."

A number of national awards will also be presented at the VFW's 114th National Convention, to include:

- The VFW Dwight D. Eisenhower Award to Adm. Robert J. Papp Jr., the commandant of the Coast Guard.
- The VFW Americanism Award to retired Gen. Peter W. Chiarelli, the former Army deputy chief of staff and now CEO of One Mind for Research.
- The VFW Armed Services Award to the Naval Special Warfare Command (the SEALs).
- VFW Aeronautic and Aerospace Awards to NASA's Mars Science Laboratory and to Pioneer Aerospace.
- The VFW Citizenship Award to Gordon Logan, founder and CEO of SportsClips.
